Helios Short Distance Fiber Cables - Helios Active Fiber Light Speed HDMI cables create a whole new level of value and performance with 24Gbps (4x6 Gbps) bandwidth, providing the fastest HDMI signal! These cables are designed to support 4K/60, 10bit, 4:4:4 and all known versions of HDR, with no external power required. They are also compatible with the new enhanced audio return channels (ARC and eARC) and all of the current HDMI specifications, with Ethernet over HDMI for crisp, clear picture quality. The higher bandwidth makes them an ideal choice to support the latest gaming consoles.

An ultra-energy efficient Rx/Tx chipset doesn't require any added external power, allowing for a cleaner and simpler installation. A robust head shell and durable cloth braided jacket protect the cable and its built-in electronics. The gold plated connectors will remain free of oxidation and the strong braided outer jacket still provides flexibility for the thin cable, making it easier to install in tight locations.
